Dear Mr. Smorenburg

I wish to pass on information regarding some rather interesting results using the sample of 'Bet'r Bait' you provided to me while visiting your booth at the Green Living Show.

I have recently taken on the responsibility of Pest Management Services at a local restaurant that is slated for opening in early June, currently there is no food in this facility. Prior to using the 'Bet'r Bait' I had chocolate as an attractant on snap traps used in the kitchen facilities, (poisons are not permitted for use in food prep. or storage area under the PCP Act), with very little results.

For the purpose of this exercise I maintained the existing snap trap, with the chocolate, replacing every second one with an identical trap with two ~1/8" strips of 'Bet'r Bait'. Within 20 minutes of placing down the first trap containing the 'Bet'r Bait' the first mouse was caught. Ten (10) more mice were caught in the same storage room in the next hour, all mice caught were on the traps baited with 'Bet'r Bait'. I then replaced all of the traps using 'Bet'r Bait' as the attractant.

The owner of the facilities had agreed to take over removal of the dead mice and the resetting of the snap traps (in order to keep costs down). The owner has contacted me stating that all of the bait is gone from the trap plates, 12 more mice were caught in the first three days of placing out the traps and that with all of the 'Bet'r Bait' gone no more mice have been caught in the last two days. "Where do I get this product?"

'Bet'r Bait', a must have in any PMP bait box.
